Taking Control of Sales & Inventory

In QuickBooks Pro and Premier

- * When you sell more of an item than you have in stock, QuickBooks creates a sales order so that you know how much to order from supplier.
- * Build manufactured items from stock items. A hardware store may sell a paint set made up of undercoat, paint and two brushes. Using Stock Assembly, stock levels of the individual components will reduce when a paint set is sold.
- * Purchase items as a package and sell them separately. A bottle shop may buy a carton of beer and sell the individual cans. Using Units of Measure you'll know that you actually have 24 stock items/cans to sell.

Multicurrency

In QuickBooks Pro and Premier

Multicurrency is a feature that allows you to deal in currencies other than the currency of your home currency. If you intend to purchase or sell goods and services outside of the country you live in, you can turn on multicurrency to create sale receipts, invoices, adjustment notes, sales orders, and estimates in other currencies; plus enter and pay bills from foreign suppliers.

Multicurrency makes it easy for you to track foreign transactions and account for them properly, regardless of the currency used to complete them.
